Acknowledgement of Disclosure and Assumption of Risk Agreement

This Acknowledgement of Disclosure and Assumption of Risk Agreement has been prepared to provide you with information regarding the risks and side effects of using cannabis (also referred to as “marijuana”). It is important that you read this information carefully and completely. Please discuss any questions you may have with a dispensary patient consultant or your certifying physician. Once you have read and understand the attached information, and have had any questions addressed to your satisfaction, please sign and date the Acknowledgement of Disclosure and Assumption Risk Agreement.

Risks and Side Effects of Cannabis Use

Possession or use of this product is unlawful outside of the State of Hawaii and prohibited by federal law.

Cannabis may have intoxicating effects and has not been analyzed or approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration (“FDA”) and was produced without FDA oversight for health, safety, or efficacy. Cannabis may contain unknown quantities of active ingredients, impurities, or contaminants.

The efficacy and potency of cannabis may vary widely depending on the cannabis strain and ingestion method.

If cannabis is smoked: Smoking may be hazardous to your health. Cannabis smoke contains carcinogens and may lead to an increased risk of cancer, tachycardia, hypertension, heart attack, birth defects, brain damage, and lung disease.

If cannabis is eaten or swallowed: When products infused with cannabis or active compounds of cannabis are eaten or swallowed, the intoxicating effects of this drug may be delayed by two or three hours or more.

There is limited information on the side effects of using cannabis, and there may be associated health risks. Side effects of cannabis can include but are not limited to:

- Memory loss
- Anxiety/Nervousness
- Dry Mouth
- Irregular/Increased heartbeat
- Sexual impotence
- Numbness
- Low blood pressure
- Agitation
- Confusion
- Poor physical condition
- Hunger/Loss of appetite
- Dizziness/Impairment of motor skills
- Cough/Bronchitis/Shortness of Breath
- Dependency

- Laryngitis/Bronchitis/General Apathy
- Drowsiness/Fatigue/Abnormal sleep
- Headache/Nausea/Vomiting
- Sedation/slower reaction time/Inability to concentrate
- Paranoia/Psychotic Symptoms
- Suppression of immune system

Symptoms of cannabis overdose include, but are not limited to nausea, vomiting, and disturbances to heart rhythm.

The scientific basis for the medical use of cannabis has not been established. There is little known information regarding how cannabis may or may not react with other pharmaceutical or herbal medications. Combining cannabis with other prescribed medications can have unpredictable adverse effects.

Some patients can become dependent on cannabis. This means they experience withdrawal symptoms when they stop using cannabis. Signs of withdrawal symptoms can include feelings of depression, sadness or irritability, restlessness or mild agitation, insomnia, sleep disturbance, unusual tiredness, trouble concentrating, and loss of appetite.

Some users can develop a tolerance to cannabis. This means higher doses are required to achieve the same symptom relief.

The possibility exists that cannabis may exacerbate schizophrenia or bipolar disorder in persons predisposed to those disorders.

Women should not consume cannabis products while planning to become pregnant, during pregnancy, or while breast feeding, except on the advice of the certifying health practitioner, and in the case of breast feeding mothers, on the advice of the infant's pediatrician. Keep out of the reach of children and pets.

Using cannabis while under the influence of alcohol is not recommended.

The use of cannabis may affect coordination, cognition, and judgement. While under the influence of cannabis, do not drive, operate machinery, or engage in potentially hazardous activities.

Please note that cannabis will degrade over time.
